Composer Notes

This 1984 text by an outstanding hymnwriter, Timothy Dudley-Smith, is a contemporary version of St. Paul's eulogy of love in 1 Corinthians 13. Putting "love" prominently makes sure it gives it undoubted primacy over the "faith" and "hope" which usually begin this quotation (as in another piece in this collection). By shining a new light on the text, it refreshes it for all of us. The music should be sung smoothly and with attention to the words; consciously avoid stressing "may" in the last line, although it is the highest note and falls on the strong beat.
