Composer Notes

If I, Your Lord and Master

This is one of the antiphons for the Mandatum, the ceremony that gives the name to Maundy Thursday, as it is called in Britain and Ireland. The tempo chosen depends on how the verses will sound; the second half of the verse must not be rushed. The words must be heard and understood, at a time when people's attention may be occupied by watching the ritual. Sing with the desire to communicate and use rubato. The accompanist should follow.
