Composer Notes

The Prayer of Saint Francis is not found, curiously, in the writings of Saint Francis (1182–1226), but was first published in 1912 in a French spiritual magazine, La Clochette. With the outbreak of the First World War two years later, the prayer became immensely popular across all faiths. The prayer has been set to music by many composers and translated into numerous languages; this paraphrase is by Scottish hymnwriter James Quinn.

This setting of Fr. Quinn’s text has its origins in a choir trip to Italy with Ashbourne Church Choir, for whom I served as organist for 17 years. One of the highlights of our trip was singing at Mass in the Lower Basilica in Assisi; this deeply moving experience led to the request to set this hymn. I finished the piece in relative isolation, along with the rest of the world, during the COVID-19 outbreak of 2020—a strange experience, but one in which there were moments of great creativity. This setting is suitable for use throughout the year, but with its theme of forgiveness and peace might be highly effective for Lent, reconciliation services and the later weeks of the Easter season, when the Gospel readings speak of peace.
