Composer Notes

Harold Owen has written a large number of compositions for chorus, orchestra, wind ensemble, organ, and a variety of solos and chamber ensembles. In addition to his definitive book on counterpoint, he wrote a book for church musicians and a music theory text. As an avid champion of early music, he performed on piano, harpsichord, recorders, and Renaissance wind instruments; he also directed an early music ensemble. He was also a much-loved teacher and choir director.
