Composer’s Notes

The most obvious use of Pan De Vida would be for the communion rite, either simply as a communion song, or as a song to accompany the fractioning through communion.

By linking eucharist with service and love, as Christ himself did by washing the feet of the disciples at the Last Supper, the text provides an opportunity to understand the eucharist in its fullest meaning—not just as an object received but as an action we do together as the people of God, and a way of being together and with others in our own history that gives life and hope.

Although appropriate throughout the year, the text could be used as a communion song particularly for those liturgies in which the readings focus upon the meaning of the eucharist, such as Corpus Christi or those Sundays in Cycle B (from the 17th to the 21st, Ordinary Time) on which the gospel is taken from John 6. Over these five Sundays Jesus describes himself as “the bread of life,” the “living bread fallen from heaven.”

Since the verses stress the gathered people as the presence of Christ or the mystical body, Pan De Vida could also be used for gathering.
